

Ainslie Wills is one of Australia's most underrated songwriters.

Her latest single 'Society' offers a thought-provoking insight to the pressures of society. If you're feeling a bit vulnerable, like I was on first listen, it's sure to make you reflect on your life, and where you are at.

The personal, yet equally relatable lyrics, are delivered by her striking vocals. The song tips between cathartic and heart-wrenching.

Given the amount of times I've already listened to this song, it's sure to be a contender for my favourite of the year.

'Society' is lifted from Ainslie Wills' second LP All You Have is All You Need, out early 2019.

PSA: make sure you listen to both versions – radio version and full version.